

The Tragedie

He is within with two reuerend Fathers,
Diuinely bent to meditation,
And in no worldly sute would he be mou'd,
To draw him from his holy exercise.

Buc. Returne good Catesby to thy Lord again,
Tell him my selfe, the Maior and Citizens,
In deepe designs and matters of great moment,
No lesse importing then our generall good,
Are come to haue some cōference with his grace.

Cat. Ile tell him what you say my Lord. Exit.

Buc. A ha my Lord, this prince is not an Edward:
He is not lulling on a leaud day bed,
But on his knees at meditation:
Not dallying with a brace of Curtizans,
But meditating with two deepe Diuines:
Not sleeping to ingrosse his idle body,
But praying to enrich his watchfull soule,
Happy were England, would this gracious prince
Take on him selfe the soueraigntie thereon,
But sure I feare we shall neuer winne him to it.

Mai. Marry God forbid his grace should say vs nay.

Enter Catesby.

Buc. I feare he will, how now Catesby,
What sayes your Lord?

Cat. My Lord he wonders to what end you haue assembled
Such troupes of Citizens to speake with him,
His grace not being warnd thereof before:
My Lord, he feares you meane no good to him.

Buc. Sory I am my noble couzen should
Suspect me that I meane no good to him.
By heauen I come in perfect loue to him,
And so once more returne and tell his grace: Exit Catesby.
When holy and deuout religious men,
Are at their beads, tis hard to draw them hence,
So sweet is zealous contemplation.

Enter Rich. and two Bishops aloft.

Maior. See where he stands betweene two Clergimen.

Buc. Two props of vertue for a Christian Prince:
To stay him from the fall of vanitie,

of Richard the third.

Famous Plantagenet, most gracious Prince,
Lend fauourable cares to my request,
And pardon vs the interruption
Of thy deuotion and right Christian zeale.

Glo. My Lord, there needs no such apologie,
I rather do beseech you pardon me,
Who earnest in the seruice of my God,
Neglect the visitation of my friends:
But leaving this, what is your Graces pleasure?

Buc. Euen that I hope which pleaseh God aboue,
And all good men of this vngouernd Ile.

Glo. I do suspect, I haue done some offence,
That seeme disgracious in the Cities eyes,
And that you come to reprehend my ignorance.

Buc. You haue my Lord: would it please your Grace
At our entreaties to amend that fault.

Glo. Else wherefore breath I in a Christian land?

Buc. Then know it is your fault that you resigne
The supreame Seate, the Throne maiesticall,
The Sceptred office of your Auncestors,
The lineall glory of your royall House,
To the corruption of a blemisht stocke:
Whilest in the mildenesse of your sleepe thoughts,
Which here we waken to your Countreyes good:
This noble Ile doth want his proper limbes,
Her face defac't with scars of infamie,
And almost shouldred in this swallowing gulph,
Of blind forgetfulnesse and darke obliuion:

Which to recure we heartily solícite
Your Gracious selfe to take on you the soueraigntie the
Not as Protector, Steward, Substitute,
Nor lowly Factor for an others gaine?
But as successiully from blood to blood,
Your right of birth, your Emperie, your owne:
For this consoorted with the Citizens,
Your worshipfull and very louing freinds,
And by their vehement instigation,
In this iust sute come I to moue your Grace.
